WHITE HAired LITTLE CODGER IN THE POLICE STATION.

He Was Ensnared on a Freight Train at Martinsburg, W. Va., and It Carried Him Away From His Happy Home.

GOT HERE TIRED AND HUNGRY.

The Thing That Bothered Him Most Was That He Wanted Something to Eat—His Parents' Notified by Wire of His Whereabouts.

The smallest prisoner that ever graced the interior of the police station was before Burgess A. D. Solson this morning to have his name recorded upon the docket, and a strange part of the proceeding was that the Burgess made the arrest himself. Yesterday afternoon a Baltimore & Ohio telegrapher brought the boy to him to be placed in his custody, the lad having been taken off a freight train at the B. & O. depot.

This morning he gave his name in a high pitched voice, but without the least sign of fear. He said it was Frank Zimmerman, 11 years old, that his father was Albert Zimmerman, an upholsterer of Martinsburg, W. Va. Tuesday afternoon he boarded a freight train with a number of other boys who helped him in a car, and when it started all of them jumped off and left him alone on the train. His little white head was all that was visible above the police counter as he told his story.

He said he stayed on the train all the time and that it, nevertheless, he never knew that it stopped at Cumberland. When he arrived here the telegraph operator caught him. He was tired enough to be arrested, anyhow, and glad enough, and hungry too.

Chief Rottler notified the boy's parents by wire yesterday afternoon, and expected to receive a message this morning as to what should be done with the little codger. He is being cared for at the police station, but the authorities do not like to have him associate with those confined there, and the battle is well filled a present with undesirable.

HOW MAINE STANDS.

Last But One of the Republican Conventions in New England.

FRYE IS FOR SECRETARY TAFT

And the Meaning of this is, Should He Wish to Push His Preference, He Would Likely Win, But Delegation Will Probably Be Uninstructed.

Special to The Courier.

BOSTON, Mass., April 30.—The Maine Republican Convention, which meets at Portland today, completes the list of the Republican State conventions in New England, excepting Connecticut, in which case the convention will meet next week. The situation in Maine with regard to preference for a Presidential candidate appears to be very similar to the conditions in Massachusetts. Taft sentiment seems to predominate, but apparently is not strong enough to result in an instructed delegation for the Secretary of War.

Three months ago Speaker Cannon seemed to be the strongest of the Republican Presidential aspirants so far as the Pine Tree State was concerned. It was looked upon with favor by the Republican State organization, while Taft appeared to have few active workers in the State. But during the past few months the situation has materially changed. Senator Frye, who is one of the biggest men in Maine politics, declared his adherence to the candidacy of Secretary Taft. His opinion was followed by Governor John F. Hill, National Committeeman, and a number of others of the foremost leaders among the Republicans of Maine. Recently the Taft boom has assumed such proportions that his candidacy is now being vigorously advocated by the State organization.

If Maine makes an uninstructed delegation, it will mean that she is acting in accordance with the policy which has been prescribed by the platform for the entire New England delegation. Unquestionably, there is a tacit understanding, if not a direct agreement, among the Republican leaders of the six New England States to have uninstructed delegations from each. Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont and New Hampshire have already decided to send a delegation to Chicago pledged to vote for the Secretary of War. Unbiased onlookers, however, remain of the opinion that the delegation will be uninstructed. If Maine makes an uninstructed delegation, it will mean that she is acting in accordance with the policy which has been prescribed by the platform for the entire New England delegation. Unquestionably, there is a tacit understanding, if not a direct agreement, among the Republican leaders of the six New England States to have uninstructed delegations from each. Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont and New Hampshire have already decided to send a delegation to Chicago pledged to vote for the Secretary of War. Unbiased onlookers, however, remain of the opinion that the delegation will be uninstructed.

It is asserted that, acting as a unit, New England will make a much stronger voice in the determination of a candidate than would be the case should each State express an individual preference. Acting in unison, New England would have 82 votes, four more than New York can cast and considerably more than any other State has. It is asserted that, following precedent, the delegations from this section should go to Chicago, ascertain and consider the situation and the needs of the Republican party, and then vote for the candidate best qualified to lead to victory upon the platform to be adopted. The present minority in this section, however, is planning to insist that uninstructed delegations must anti-Roosevelt and anti-Taft delegations. They have been somewhat reconciled to the plan, however, by the fact that a large proportion of the delegates already chosen are avowed Taft men.

This will probably be the case in Maine. If Senator Frye can be prevailed upon to consider his early determination not to be a delegate, he probably will be selected to head the Maine delegation to Chicago. The others whose names are most prominently mentioned in connection with the "Big Four" are John F. Hill, the National Committeeman; Frederick A. Powers, a former Judge of the Supreme Court of Maine, and D. P. Ricker of Poland Spring. All are for Taft.

IF THE RAIN LETS UP

Then There'll Be a Fine Opening of the Baseball Season Tomorrow.

MONTGOMERY IS FULL OF HOPE

And Likewise of Ginger, and if He Can Inject this Quality into His Players He's Going to Show Us People the Real Goods.

Final instructions and directions were issued today by Milt Montgomery to his aggregation of ball players for the opening game of the Pawva League tomorrow afternoon at Martinsburg. The weather was too bad for practice today, so time was spent with the manager, closed in the parlors of the Trans-Allegheny Hotel.

Manager Montgomery said this morning that he felt he had a good team, and that it would give a credit to the town during the coming season. He now has all the players he will accept for some time, except possibly one man. The lineup for tomorrow's game has been a matter of much consideration, but he has not announced who will be either catcher or pitcher. He prefers to see which of his men warms up best and has best control of the ball. The catchers slated are Cadogan, Fopham and Griffin. Pitchers now with the team are Everyman, Blund, Herron, Wallace and Adams. Any of these may be selected.

The balance of the lineup will be Ryan, first base; Montgomery, second base; Berghammer, short stop; Birmingham, third base; O'Hara, left; Kiley, middle; Francis, right field. The uniforms are expected today. They cost the Association upwards of $100, and are made of splendid material. They are black trimmed in white. The parade will start from the public building about 2 o'clock.

Montgomery does not think today's rain will interfere with the grounds, and that if it should not rain tomorrow they will be in good shape.

The police had no record of Mann and placed the communication in the hands of several foreign bankers, who promised to look the man up.

The letter made an earnest appeal to have him located, but did not state why the information was wanted.

FIRST TROUBLE

Water Main Bursts and Foundation for Bank Building Flooded.

Pittsburg street was closed this morning at the corner of Main street and the first mishap in connection with the excavation for the new Second National Bank building occurred when a large water pipe was broken. The stream burst into the foundation excavation and flooded the Orchard alley end of the lot before a sewer could be broken into and the water released from the hole. Contractor William McCormick and a helper were removing an old water pipe when it broke off and the flood was let loose. Superintendent J. D. Stillwagon was hastily summoned and sent a gang of workmen to repair the break. A great deal of time was taken in finding the pipe's location and shutting off the water. In the meantime it was necessary to rope off the street, which occasioned great inconvenience to teamsters.

The rainy weather has caused some apprehension regarding the string of insecure buildings now resting upon props along the excavation. It is feared the soft earth may give way and drop them into the hole.

INJUNCTION.

United Mine Workers Have Aroused Great Opposition in the Butler-Mercer Field.

United Press Telegram.

Galbraith in the county court this morning issued a preliminary injunction against President Francis Feehan and 14 organizers and all members of the United Mine Workers of America in the field.

In the petition filed with the court it is alleged that the employees of the various operators had been satisfied with the wage terms until organizers from the mine workers' union put in an appearance. It is stated in the petition that those who refused to join the union were termed scabs and blacklegs and other opprobrious epithets, and in addition to this had frightened the men by the discharge of revolvers and rifles and the explosion of powder kegs, accompanied by threats.

The papers will be served on the defendants this afternoon.

STABLE RAIDED AT 1.30 A. M.

Two White Men Caught in the Police Net and Fined $5 Each Along With the Colored Women—Negroes Refuse to Pay for Soup and Are Thrown Out of Restaurant.

Ethel Hill and Lillian Stoval, colored damsels of Dunbar, made two excursions to Connellville last night, one by trolley and the other by car. They and the last time they arrived they were arrested for drinking while driving and acting disorderly in Stoval's lively stable, on Church Place, at 1.30 o'clock this morning. They had a good aggregation of men with them at that hour, but the police were only able to round up two men and the two women.

The raid was conducted by Officers McDonald, McQuinn, Hotzel and Lowe. J. L. Pryor of Connellville and John Smith of Brownsville were also taken at the same time, accused of having been connected with the disorderly affair. Ethel Hill testified this morning that she and her friends came to Connellville to have a good time. She did have considerable fun with one crowd of friends, and having concluded the session, she and Lillian started to walk to New Haven. About a dozen dusky girls of Ham followed them. The girls then got money from a friend and went to Dunbar, where they had previously arranged for friends to drive up there. They engaged a rig at Stoval's and made the trip, and after their return here there was a general assemblage in the stable; but some of the objectionable ones had been thrown out of the stable, notwithstanding the scene. The girls would not now many men had been brought about the stable during the night.

Pryor testified that all the connection he had with the affair was to accompany the driver of the rig to Dunbar and bring the girls to Connellville. The police officers, however, and connected him with it. His friend, John Smith, admitted he had been drunk and had been with the women. All were assessed $5 each.

There was a commotion yesterday afternoon about four o'clock on West Main street where the Jones of South Connellville and John Torrence of Jacob's Creek, negroes were forcibly ejected from Cuneo's restaurant. They went sprawling out into a crowd. Officer Francis was Johnny on the spot and picked both men up and took them to the bastille.

At a hearing this morning both were sentenced to 72 hours for disorderly conduct. They admitted that they had been drinking. Torrence said he went into the restaurant and ordered two bowls of soup. He thought he was drunk with money, but after he and Jones had engaged the soup he discovered he had no money. Frank Cuneo demanded his pay. The negroes grew insolent. Restaurant proceedings were instituted and ended with both negroes on the pavement.

Burgess Solson, after imposing sentence directed the Chief of Police to notify the restaurant keepers to hereafter call an officer when they may have trouble in their places instead of projecting offenders in the manner pursued yesterday. The velocity with which the negroes came out of the door, according to witnesses, was such that the lives of others on the street were endangered, as a West Penn trolley car had arrived about then and the crowd was dense.

Steve Kish was sentenced to 48 hours imprisonment for drunkenness, and will be presented for carrying concealed weapons. When arrested Officer Anderson found upon him a knife about six inches long which he was carrying open in his pocket. Five common drunks got 48 hours. A full house witnessed the proceedings.

QUAKER CITY 225 YEARS OLD IN FALL.

Magnificent Historical Pageant Being Arranged for October 9.

A WEEK OF CELEBRATIONS.

This Will Be the First American Pageant, and Will Be on a Monster Scale—Three Full Centuries Are to Be Depicted in the Display.

Special to The Courier.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—Philadelphia will present on Friday, October 9, next, the first Historical Pageant ever witnessed in the United States, and it will undoubtedly be the crowning feature of the week of parades, military, municipal, industrial and naval, which will commemorate the 225th anniversary of the founding of "William Penn of the government of the city."

The first American pageant will be on a scale of magnificence which will challenge not only the admiration of the United States, but will make the historical pageants of England and Continental Europe small in comparison. Given under the direct control of the city authorities, acting in conjunction with a large and representative committee of leading citizens, every effort is being made to perform this unique task on a plane that will reflect credit upon the city and arouse the pride of the nation as a whole. In a great measure the forthcoming historical pageant will be replete with features of national interest, long antedating the Revolution. No less than 40 large floats will form the pageant, and with these there will be at least 5,000 different characters all faithfully costumed to fit the various epochs that are to be reproduced.

Three full centuries are to be depicted, beginning with the 17th century with the Swedes, the Dutch, who occupied the present site of Philadelphia prior to the arrival of Penn in 1682. The various historians, artists and men of affairs who have this feature in charge intend to make these reproductions historically accurate. Then following in regular sequence will be the boats representative of the landing of Penn, his famous treaty with the Indians, the early life, customs and manners of the colonists, the beginning of the Revolutionary period, the city during the Revolution, the city together with boats depicting Thomas Jefferson writing the Declaration of Independence and the "Proclamation of Liberty" throughout the land and the inhabitants thereof, by the Liberty Bell at the State House in 1776. In connection with this period will be shown details of Continental troops, Philadelphia's famous First City Troop in the original uniforms, General Washington; Robert Morris, the great financier of that time who raised the necessary funds for the country to defeat the British; the battle of Germantown; the flight of the British, or which falls this year on October 6, and other important features of that part of the city's and country's history.

Philadelphia and the nation in the War of 1812 will be similarly treated, and again it will be shown that it was a Philadelphia, Stephen Girard, who financed the government. Considerable attention is also being devoted to the Mexican War and the Rebellion, and in connection with the latter display it will be shown that another Philadelphia, like Morris and Girard, performed the heroic task of providing Lincoln with the funds for saving the Union. That was Jay Cooke, the great financier. Another feature of the Civil War period will be the production of details of men of about 20 each correctly uniformed, representing every one of the Philadelphia regiments which enlisted for the war.

This historical pageant, so it is estimated, will cost not less than $50,000 to produce. It will be witnessed by no fewer than a million people and among those who will be the official guests of the city on that day will be representatives of the national government, the Governors of all the States and the Mayors of the leading American cities.

The committee which is arranging for this pageant number about 400 and includes such authorities on historical and art subjects as A. G. Hotelling, one of the founders of the Fairmount Park Association; John Bich McMaster, the eminent historian; Morris Jastrow, Jr., who has made a study of the European pageants, and will this summer see the proposed fete at Oxford, England, and the pageant to be held in June at Vienna; John F. Lewis, President of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts; John V. Jordan, Secretary of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania; Thomas L. Montgomery, State Librarian; Harrison Morris, Charles Heber Clark (Max Adler), Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh, the widely known educator and author; Horace Trumbauer, Col. Robert S. Beuth and Peter Boyd.

FOREIGNERS BOUND FOR THE SOUTHWEST.

A nine-coach train of foreigners arrived in Connelville over the E. & O. railroad this morning, but they were not destined for the "coke fields." They were bound for the great Southwest. They differed from the ordinary immigrant to this region in that nearly all of them had the appearance of being farmers. An unusually large number of women and children accompanied the train, and these are all expected to settle on farms along the Pacific slope. Given the little children looked like farm workers, and all were a sturdy, healthy aspect.

Boys and widows were worn by nearly all the men, who carried their belongings in great sacks made of burlap. The women were rather good looking, and had the appearance of being industrious housewives.

NICHOLSON TALKS.

The Local Option Boomers Launches a Deluge of Hot Words at the Jubilant Liquor Dealers.

Despite the loud claims of the liquor people that they made a sweep at the recent Legislative primaries, the local optionists did remarkably well, and have good reason to be satisfied with the results, according to the statement of Dr. S. E. Nicholson, Superintendent of the State.

"The apparent jubilation of the liquor people shows how glad they are that they yet have a breathing spell, and at the same time shows how little they know of the real situation," said Dr. Nicholson yesterday. "One paper says that there are only 17 men for prohibition, and inside information is that the liquor men are claiming that local option will only have 50 votes in the House next winter. We are perfectly content that they should be thus satisfied."

"They were ready to bet last winter that we would only have 50 votes for the Craven bill, yet there has not been a day after the November election of 1906 that we did not know that we had close to 80 votes, and before the roll was called on the Craven resolution we knew that we had more than 80 votes. I have no hesitancy now in warning the opposition, secure as they profess to believe they are, that they are right now up against the hardest game of their existence in Pennsylvania."

"One of their leaders admits an expenditure of $5,000,000 in the campaign, and we will be willing to count votes with them after the election is over."

"The fact is, and the liquor men cannot deny it, that where there were any contests at all they lost far more than they did. I will go further and say we have more men interested who are pledged to local option, publicly or privately, than the liquor men have of those who are directly pledged against it. As we have anticipated for two months, the primaries were but a skirmish to the main battle next fall."

"That we did not fare worse, under the circumstances, is one of the marvels of the recent campaign, and is a tremendous tribute to the local option sentiment in Pennsylvania. No one knows, probably, the tremendous amount of money that was poured into the campaign to defeat the local option. Regardless of party affiliations, regardless of the Corrupt Practices Act, regardless of all decency even, they voted every man who could be polled for liquor, and with the local element generally divided by honestly voting the ticket of their parties, the wonder is that they did not win in many places where they lost."

is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 30, 1908.

THE REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

The delegates to the Republican State Convention didn't dally with their duty. They did their work quickly and thoroughly and well. Harmony ruled the hour. The convention was a unit in all its actions, because it represented a united and earnest party. If the Democrats are counting on Republican divisions they will have to look outside of Pennsylvania for them.

The emphatic endorsement of the candidacy of Philander Chase Knox for the Presidency, and the positive instructions for him, will probably bring a realizing sense of the real character of the Knox boom to the doubting Thomases of some of the political wits who have persisted in regarding a Pennsylvania candidate for the Presidency as a mere political joke. The Republican Platform advances some cogent reasons why Pennsylvania should be honored with the nomination and why the nominee should be Senator Knox, and it concludes with the logical and forceful command:

"To the end, therefore, that the Nation shall have a great President, that Pennsylvania shall resolve that it will stand for the election of Philander Chase Knox as President of the United States, and that one whose labors have been the richest fruits to the American people in Cabinet, Court and Senate shall be given just recognition at their hands."

The cordial endorsement of Senator Blaes Penrose, the generous praise of our Representatives in Congress and the warm commendation of Governor Stuart and his administration are striking evidences of the complete harmony which now prevails in the ranks of the Republican party of Pennsylvania and indicates no falling off in the Keystone State's overwhelming majority this fall. The voice of faction is silent, and faithful officials set from the party that ungrudging commendation that is coming to them from all the people.

Considering the fact that Pennsylvania is preeminently a Tariff State, the declaration on that question is characterized by great moderation. Pennsylvania does not believe in a Robber Tariff any more than do any other representatives of her people, in or out of the Enemy's Country. They believe in the principle of Protection that encourages home manufacture and good wages for labor, and they need only point to the history of the nation for confirmation of the proven accuracy of this distinctive Republican doctrine; but in common with all reasonable and sensible business men they recognize the fact that shifting trade conditions render an occasional revision of the tariff schedule necessary to insure justice to all interests. They are, however, opposed to constant "tinkering" with the tariff, for the reason that it unsettles business and disturbs the country's prosperity. To their minds it is better that a few isolated interests should suffer temporary injustice than the whole nation shall be plunged into a period of adversity, and perhaps that is the reason the nation as a whole agrees with them with such unanimity and cordiality.

The waterways plank has an eminently proper place in a platform supported by Senator Knox. It reflects his expressed sentiments on a great public question, sentiments which have met with general approval throughout the country and which are quite honestly written into the Republican National Platform.

The platform as a whole is a straightforward declaration, free from glittering generalities and bombastic utterances, terse and telling; in fact, it is such a platform that might have been inspired if not actually written by the man who always says things worth considering when he speaks or writes; in short, it is a Knox platform from its deck to its foundation timbers.

If the charges against E. & O. Freight Agents Sharp and Horn are true, it will only be another case of railroad-buccaneering, differing from the others in extent and method, but not in principle. The firm of Sharp & Horn held up the railroad, while the other pirates held up the coal operator and through him, the public.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company found excellent use for its idle Southwest branch locomotives yesterday. It turned them into fire engines for the protection of Rutledge from wholesale destruction.

Everybody comes to the Coke Center, even such as from West Virginia come in special cars to enjoy our hospitality and see the sights of And Island-on-the-Tough.

Postmaster Sickel-Smith's reapportionment has been confirmed by the Senate and is in line with the plan of the House. It is in line with the plan of the House and is in line with the plan of the House.

Words seldom seem adequate to argument, especially when the subject is one so frequently called in to emphasize the discourse.

Republican
State Platform.

The Republican State Platform declares emphatically for Knox for President, for revision of the tariff in the house of its friends, for a more elastic currency, for waterways improvements, for good roads and for liberal common school appropriations; it commends the administration of President Roosevelt and expresses a double pride in its achievement at Interstate commerce regulation "by reason of the intimate relation borne to its origin and its completion" by Senator Knox; congratulates Senator Penrose on his courage and endorses him for reelection; praises the administration of Governor Stuart and commends the departments for their excellent work. The more important planks are as follows:

The Presidency. Pennsylvania having not only given birth to the republic and to the Republican party, but having continuously and consistently contributed to the growth and greatness of both, she is pre-eminently qualified by tradition and by the proven ability of her sons to select and master the great problems of government that have arisen in the past and are most certain to arise during the next four years. We therefore assert her right to the National Convention and assume her proper place among the States in the selection of the nation's Chief Executive.

We have it to be her right and her duty to demand from the party the same treatment in the nomination as the party demands of her in the election of Presidential candidates.

If for 40 years Pennsylvania has been sufficiently loyal in principle and sufficiently potent in performance to provide the balance of power necessary to elect almost every Republican President since Lincoln, surely she is worthy of recognition by her sister States when she doubly fortifies her claims by presenting the most capable and distinguished national candidate suggested by existing national necessities.

While Theodore Roosevelt declared that "in the solution of the many difficult problems we face we need the common sense, common sense and the resolute courage which Mr. Knox has shown, the character that will refuse to be hurried into any hasty or precipitate movement by any clamor whether hysterical or demagogic and the other hand, the character that will refuse to be frightened out of a movement by any pressure, still less by any threat expressed or implied," he asserted only that which the great Pennsylvania's achievements and attainments in the fullest measure justified.

To the end, therefore, that the nation shall have a great President, that Pennsylvania shall resolve that it will stand for the election of Philander Chase Knox as President of the United States, and that one whose labors have been the richest fruits to the American people in Cabinet, Court and Senate shall be given just recognition at their hands."

The Tariff. A tariff upon importation of goods from foreign countries is necessary to lift and maintain American capital and American labor above the lower foreign standards has long since been established by the Republican party as an American policy. It is a policy of sound wisdom and economy; a policy that has been constantly sustained by the popular will and one whose maintenance is essential to continued advancement in American social and commercial conditions.

While not abating one jot or tittle from its adherence to the distinctive merits of the policy of protection which has been the cause of America's population, power and prosperity, yet the Republican party of Pennsylvania recognizes the general demand for a revision of the tariff in the Congress of last year. It is a demand that is not only a demand for the future, but a demand that such modifications may be made that there will be no undue burden on the present time and in such manner as will be consistent with the real welfare of the American people.

Stability of business, however, demands that tariff schedules should not be made and such changes as are made should be entrusted to the party that has established, defended and preserved the vitalizing policy of real protection. The public good demands that the subject shall not be entrusted to the hands of the doctrinaires, the demagogues, or the Democratic party to be manipulated for partisan advantage.

The Currency. The Republican party has always recognized it to be a national duty to maintain the stability and maintenance of its currency system to regulate with equal care the quantity and quality of its money and the medium of exchange. We believe that the marvelous and widespread commercial and industrial development of the country has necessitated a currency system that will permit of more elasticity in times of excessive activities and yet one that will forbid the introduction of any medium of exchange that would not in itself and independent of any government guarantee be at all times worth its full face value.

Waterways and Harbors. We believe the duty of the government to improve its waterways and harbors is made more than ever necessary by the great expansion and progress on the isthmus of Panama. Besides the vast general inducement for bringing all our harbors and rivers to their full economic capacity, the direct bearing of this work in securing to our own people their fair share of the benefits from the inter-oceanic canal is so intimate and weighty that it cannot be neglected with justice to this nation or without sacrificing our own intelligence and consistency.

Good Roads. We favor increased appropriations in the interest of good roads throughout the Commonwealth and approve the good work of the Department of Highways.

Public Schools. We urge upon the Legislature continued liberality in the support of our magnificent system of public schools, which is not equalled in any other Commonwealth or country.

Soldiers and Sailors. We again acknowledge the nation's overwhelming debt of gratitude to its brave soldiers and sailors, and express our approval of the action of Congress in the passage of the act of February 10, 1907, for the relief of the act of April 19, 1908, extending the class and increasing the pension of widows.

While it is considered very advisable to spank Castro, Uncle Sam hesitates.—News Item.

IN THE Carpet Room.

There's a reason for us asking you to pay this carpet room a visit, and that reason is connected with your pocket book. You do not buy a carpet or curtains or linoleum or shades for a single season's wear, nor yet for two or three seasons. It's service you want as well as good looks, and it is goods that will give you the kind of service that you ought to have that we have here. Before this we have made this proposition to you and we make it again. Ask some of your friends about the kind of goods we have here in this carpet room. We would not make you a proposition like this if we did not have plenty of confidence in these carpets and curtains and other goods we have in this carpet room, for almost any one can tell whether a carpet is good or bad after it has been worn a year or two, but you and every one of us have to depend partly when the carpet is new on the shrewdness or the reputation of the dealer and the make of the particular carpet you are looking at.

Stinson Carpets.

Ought to be a good reputation for a make of carpet when we tell you that we have been handling this particular make for almost thirty years. When you think of the many thousands of yards of Stinson carpets we have sold it should not be hard for you to find some one who knows from their own experience how much service you may expect from a Stinson carpet. Our carpet experience tells us that other makes of carpet are not as good as Stinson's. Our neighbors will tell you the same thing. Priced at $1.10 for the Tapestry and $1.25 for the Velvet, Made, Laid and Lined. Easy for you to investigate these carpet statements we have made here and if you have a carpet want you own it to your pocket book to do so.

SCIENCE OF BOOSTING

People of Denver Have Got It Down to a Fine Point.

THEY MAKE IT A BUSINESS.

And the Natural Result is That the City is Raised Greatly in the Estimation of All Who Visit It.

"Enterprise is a great quality in citizens," said a well known resident of this city to a reporter yesterday. "I believe there should be a college course opened for teaching the proper way to exert the abilities every citizen has so that he would do the best work for his city. Everyone wants to do what he can and most citizens will spend considerable money and do a great deal of work if he is assured that some good will come of it. The trouble is there is so seldom a chance to act together for the benefit of the city that people get out of the habit."

"I cannot recall any city of which I am familiar that has the work of 'boosting' done to such a science as they have it in Denver, Colorado. Out there they seem to study it as a man would make a study of his business. Every man in the town is a committee to see that all strangers are impressed with the climate, scenery, value of real estate and general attractiveness of the place. I was out there last year and I never was so impressed in my life with the value of systematic work in an effort to help the city."

"Denver decided some years ago that she ought to have clean streets. The down town sidewalks were not so spotless as the citizens thought they should be and ways and means were discussed for improving them. Now the streets are washed every night and the dirt is carried away into the sewers. The job of washing the streets is done by a force of men employed by the city and no section of the city is neglected. Every sunrise sees the streets clean and the cool and the effect of fresh cleanliness does not wear away all day long."

"A few years ago it was decided that there were not enough trees or shade in the city. It was arranged so that 20,000 young trees were to be purchased by the city and given away every year and this plan has worked so well that Denver will soon be a city of numerous trees. The expense of buying trees in lots of 20,000 is so much less than when bought in small lots by real estate owners that the price of each tree is insignificant. The city government gives with each lot of trees printed directions for caring for them and a large percentage of each consignment lives and flourishes."

"There was a threatened readjustment of water rates a few years ago that would make extra charges for water used on lawns and the citizens saw that it would result in many people neglecting their lawns entirely if hard times came on temporarily. If it was necessary to give money for any purpose many home owners would be by quitting the use of water on their lawns, thus causing the city to take on an unsightly appearance. The influence of the Chamber of Commerce and all prominent citizens was brought to bear to have the water rates so adjusted that water for lawns was included with the ordinary water rates and if the householder did not use water on his lawn he saved nothing. As a result the lawns of Denver are the pride of the city and the astonishment of all who visit there."

"The planning of city building and carrying out plans for the betterment of business has yielded golden returns for Denver. Last year the building permits amounted to eight million dollars and the city public improvements covered the amount to more than ten million. The erection of an auditorium for the National Democratic Convention was one of the strokes of enterprise that attracted wide attention. This alone will cost $800,000 and the citizens believe they already have got back their money in the value of favorable advertising the city has received."

"There seems no end to the resources the citizens of Denver have for improving their city. Their specialty is treating strangers with every mark of friendliness and courtesy. They seem to have determined to win the good will of all who come and send them away praising Denver. This example might be imitated with profit by a great many cities. A grand revival of civic pride and a concerted effort for mutual help would do wonders for our own city, for instance."

PLANS FOR SUMMER.

Roosevelt Won't Be Home to Uninvited Guests at Oyster Bay.

MUST MAKE APPOINTMENTS.

The Campaign Methods of the President and His Staff Will Likely Be the Same as in 1904.

Special to The Courier.
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 26.—Hands off, no interference with the campaign; no speeches for whoping up political delegations; no trips into the provinces to help the Republican candidate. This in brief is the attitude the President will maintain during the campaign, according to the emphatic assertion of his right hand man, Secretary Loeb, and it is a true prophet the coming summer at Oyster Bay will be just about as dull as it was four years ago when the President was running and Secretary Cortelyou, as Chairman of the Republican National Committee, was directing the most bustling "gun show" canvas on record.

As during last summer and several summers previously, the President will not be "at home" to uninvited guests during his vacation. Those who wish to see the President must write or telephone Secretary Loeb or Assistant Secretary Latta, asking for an appointment. If they fail to do so and journey to Oyster Bay without an invitation to call, they will have spent their railroad fare and time for nothing. The secret service guards stationed at Sagamore Hill will turn them back, even though they be members of the greatest importance in business or politics, and a delectable view of the broad porches of the President's cottage will be all they will get of the Executive's presence.

Of course, there are a certain number of men who need no formal invitation and who are always welcome to cross the President's threshold no matter whether he is in Washington or at his home in Long Island. The members of his cabinet, Senators, judges and a few others would be passed by the secret service detectives if they put in an appearance at midnight. But even these favored few could not go to Oyster Bay without first sending word of their intention. Secretaries Taft, Root, Cortelyou and Garfield, Attorney General Bonaparte and Postmaster General Meyer are pretty certain to pay the President two or three visits apiece during the three months he will be at home, and Secretary Taft, granted he is nominated at Chicago, may be a more frequent visitor if the business of the campaign will allow him to make the trips.

It is believed by the Taft supporters that should he suddenly find that he needs a "boost" in this or that hotly contested section, the President would stand ready to go to his rescue and make a speech in his behalf. Even the President's closest friends admit that he is quite likely to pitch into the fight with his sleeves bared to the elbows, if his candidate should be seriously attacked. Nothing of this sort is contemplated, it is officially said at the White House, and to prove his hands-off determination, the President has turned down every invitation thus far extended him for corner stone laying, monument unlaying or celebrations of any sort in any part of the country.

If the President follows out his present plans, he will leave for Oyster Bay on June 1 and will remain there until about the first of October. His summer offices will be located in the same place as last year and several years before, on the second floor of Moore's provision store, corner of Main and South streets, and his force of secretaries, stenographers, telegraphers and messengers will be the same as last summer.

ABRAHAM H. CASSELL DEAD.

Famous Collector of Old Books Passes Away at Great Age.

Abraham Harley Cassell, the foremost Pennsylvania German philologist and a widely known authority on the literature and history of the Germans in America, is dead at his home in Montgomery county in his 96th year, paralysis being the cause of his death.

That the love of books was the ruling passion of Mr. Cassell's life was apparent in his earliest years. But in the home in Towamencin township, where he was born on September 21, 1820, books were rarely seen. The father, an old time Dunker, believed that reading encouraged idleness. To procure books the boy earned small sums by selling berries and nuts or by gathering roots and herbs for the village physician. Then his parents ordered him to use this money to buy his clothes. But rather than be without books, the boy went to school for the first time. The term continued for six weeks, and that was the extent of Cassell's education within the walls of a school house. But the country schoolmaster eventually he became a schoolmaster. In that capacity he attained great success.

While "boarding around" among the farmers, as was customary for the teacher, Cassell's mind was opened to the fact that a rich mine of German-American literature lay hidden in those Pennsylvania farm houses. Hidden in attics or stored in barns he found the massive volumes of the pioneer printers.

Sustained only by his slender earnings as a teacher and a farmer, he pursued his task of rescuing a lost literature. Often he made long journeys in search of books. He obtained copies of virtually every known product of the German press in America, including complete sets of the Saint, Baphrata and Franklin Imprints. The second floor of his house was fitted up as a library, and there his treasures were carefully arranged on shelves and in drawers. There were books, pamphlets and newspapers, some of them more than 200 years old. In all there were 50,000 titles in the collection, and for many years this farm house library was a rich storehouse of information for those engaged in historical research.

Mr. Cassell's eyesight failed some years ago, and being no longer able to enjoy the companionship of his books, he arranged for the preservation of his collection by transferring part of it to the Pennsylvania Historical Society, Philadelphia, and the remainder to Juniata College, Huntingdon.

HOME FOR ANCIENT FAITH.

First Edifice of Its Kind in the West at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—A Hindoo Temple, the first in the whole Christian world, for the benefit of modern people with eastern minds and habits, has been dedicated at Webster and Filbert streets under the auspices of the San Francisco Vedanta Society. There was music and prayer and a talk by Swami Trishanku, a highly cultivated Hindoo who explained that the most ancient of religions was big enough to contain all the religions of today.

The interior of the building is similar to that of the ordinary houses of worship, and it is only by its exterior, its domes, towers and minarets that the stranger is given notice that the architecture of another people and clime has been transplanted into the midst of Western progress and civilization along with the teachings of the Vedas themselves.

The dedicatory services were simple, consisting of music, a prayer and a sermon. Calla lilies and greens served as decorations, and on the platform or pulpit were two large pictures of noted exponents of the ancient faith in their native country.

The cornerstone of the building was laid August 5, 1905, and the building was considerably delayed, owing to the fire, but was finally finished.

The entire edifice is white and the domes and minarets glistened in the sunlight and were gay with flags of the United States. The several towers are copies of the Taj Mahal, a tomb at Agra and one of the wonders of the world, the temple of Jagannath and other noted buildings, and the entire structure is a composite of Hindoo, Moorish and Mohammedan architecture.

For private meditation and prayer the devotee ascends to the roof and enters one of these towers. In it there is a mat on the floor—the only offering of a seat. A shaded electric bulb lights the whole room.

In his talk Swami Trishanku gave an explanation of the ideas of Hindooism or Vedantism. He pointed out that a belief in the truths set forth in the Vedas in no way combats any belief one may hold, but that it includes all beliefs. The central point is truthfulness to one's own self; that Vedantism does not concern itself with the future, but with the present; that the future will take care of itself.

Letter to John Layton, Connellsville, Pa.

Dear Sir: The maker who puts 2 or 3 lbs of whitening on a gallon of paint, saves $1.50 to $2.25 for himself and makes you overpay $25 on a $50 job.

It takes 15 gallons of his weak paint—it is weak from the adulteration and probably weak from benzol or water besides—it takes 15 gallons of that poor stuff to cover a 10 gallon job. Devotee: it may take 20. Here's a case.

Judge I. D. Fairchild owns two houses, exactly alike, in Lufkin, Texas. J. M. Torrence painted both houses, one Devotee, 15 1/2 gallons; the other with another paint sold at the same price; 25 gallons. That 25 gallon paint is weak and 15 per cent. whitening; that's why it took 25 1/2 gallons more.

It costs $2 to $4 a gallon to paint any paint, whether good or not. Add to this the price, and the cost of your job is $5 a gallon; $75 to $100 for trash: Devotee $50.

Paint that takes more gallons may or may not be adulterated; there are eight pure paints and 200 adulterated; Devotee is the strongest of all; it takes least gallons, makes the least bill, and wears longest of all.

You can overpay from 10 to 120 per cent; and the more you pay, the worse your job. In paint, the rule is least gallons, least cost, longest wear.

Yours truly, F. W. DEVOE & CO.

TATTOOING IN NAVY.

This Practice Shows a Continuous Growth Among Sailors.

NO LIMITS TO THE DESIGNS.

They include many such subjects as "Are Likely to Interest the Attention of Men Who Follow the Sea."

Special to The Courier.
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 30.—The American sailor is setting new records for decorating the body with fanciful tattooed designs, according to a report made to the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery by Surgeon A. Farenholt of the navy.

Out of 2,572 cases, the first enlistment records showed that 23 per cent. were human picture books. The reenlistment records showed that the habit had become so popular that 64 per cent had taken it up.

There is no limit to the size, intricacy and position of the designs. A composite picture of the whole crew wouldn't leave a patch of skin as large as a postage stamp without some device or other.

Letters, monograms, initials and all other devices head the list," says Surgeon Farenholt, "and constitute about 25 per cent. of all ink marks. Coats of arms and national emblems follow with about 25 per cent; then flags, anchors, etc. One of every three men tattooed selects a design, some part of which is a female figure. Less than one per cent. show indecent subjects. Almost invariably such designs have been covered with other work.

Among the types are apprentice knots, pig or dorsum on foot, supposed to shield the possessor from death by drowning, crucifix which is a case of death would insure a Christian burial in a Christian country, and Jerusalem Cross, which would answer the same purpose on Moslem shores. Of the latter there were 14, all in reenlisted men.

One man was adorned with a rock covering each foot and extending above the ankles; another with a fox hunting scene, the dogs in full cry over the abdomen, up over the shoulder and down the back. The entire back was covered in one case by a large Masonic column, globe, little Egypt followed in two cases and a copy of a bear trade-mark in one.

The following designs were found to be more popular on reenlistment than among those who came directly from civil life: Goddess of Liberty, ships, eagles, pigs and apprentice knots.

PAY FOR SUPERVISORS.

Judge Galbraith Decides the Law Does Not Expect Officers to Work for Nothing.

That road supervisors of Pennsylvania are entitled to pay under the laws of the State, is the opinion of Judge James M. Galbraith of Butler county. The opinion was rendered last Saturday and is of the greatest importance, as it has been held generally since the enactment of the road law in 1905 that the office of supervisor was merely an honorary one. Since the road law of 1905 went into effect all supervisors have been serving without pay.

It appears that in one of the townships in Butler county one of the supervisors elected refused to serve and the roads became in bad condition. The taxpayers of that particular township petitioned the court to order the payment of $50 each to three persons to act as supervisors.

Instead, Judge Galbraith held that under the Act of 1889, the supervisors in the several townships of this Commonwealth were entitled to $1.50 for each day necessarily employed in the discharge of the duties of the office.

The Act of 1905, which is known as the Road Supervisors' Act, does not say that the supervisors shall receive any compensation, and in section 7 merely states that they shall meet for the transaction of business once each month, and the Board may be allowed for necessary expenses, including office rent, light, fuel and stationery, to be paid out of the township road funds.

The repealing clause to the Act says all Acts or parts of Acts, general, special or local, inconsistent herewith or supplied hereby, be and the same are hereby repealed, and Judge Galbraith holds that the Act of 1889 is not repealed by what is known as the repealing clause of the Act of 1905.

Victim of a Runaway Horse.
Charles R. Honnacker, manager of the Fayette County Gas Company in the Masonstown district, was thrown from this buggy Thursday afternoon at Ronco by a runaway horse. A Italian who was with him was dumped out, too, but he escaped injury.

PILGRIMS FOR ROME.

The Slavonia Carries Several Hundred to the Pope's Jubilee.
NEW YORK, April 30.—(Special.) Among others from a large crowd and much embracing and other tokens of farewell, the Cunard steamship Slavonia, having on board a large number of Catholic pilgrims bound for Rome, sailed at noon today. The delegation numbers several hundred, including many prominent priests, laymen and women of the faith, and is headed by Bishop McDonnell of Brooklyn, who officiates as spiritual director of the pilgrimage. During the voyage mass will be celebrated daily in a cabin, especially set aside for the purpose.

The first stop will be at Gibraltar. From there the pilgrims will proceed to Naples. They will visit Pompeii, Capri and Monte Casino before going to Rome. The party will be present at the jubilee celebration of the Pope and then it will alight. Some will visit the Holy Land, while others will go to Northern Europe.

Poison-laden Blood.

Resulting from Artificial Winter Life Is Purified by Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills.

Few people breathe enough fresh air in winter to purify the blood. As a result spring finds the blood laden with poisons and there are headaches, pains in the limbs and tired, worn-out feelings.

The liver and kidneys become sluggish and clogged and quite fail in their mission of filtering and purifying the blood.

It is because of their direct and specific action on these organs that Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills are so wonderfully effective in purifying the blood—for it is by means of the liver and kidneys alone that the blood can be purified.

This medicine ensures regular and healthful action of the bowels, cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive and excretory systems and thereby removes the cause of pains and aches, of tired, languid feelings, biliousness, backache and constipation.

Purify the blood this spring by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, and you will not know what it is to feel depressed and to suffer the effects of sluggish, torpid liver, kidneys and bowels, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Dr. A. DEBATE

The clothing question from a common sense standpoint. Why do ready made clothes say their garments are as good as the made to order? Because the latter are the standard by which clothing is judged. So instead of having an imitation of the best, have the real thing.

WE'LL TAILOR YOU A SUIT that will be put in style, real in fit, real in all the touches that only skilled tailoring can give. Come and be measured for clothing you'll be proud to be seen in.

WEAR HORNER'S CLOTHING

We Will Begin May With a Rousing Sale of Tailored Suits for Women.

EXQUISITE new styles in almost countless numbers are offered in this sale, beginning Friday, May 1, and continuing until our stocks are reduced to normal proportions. A $37.50 suit for $29.75 is one of the values that will crowd our magnificent suit section and every value offered in this sale is equally attractive.

And here is something to think over seriously. The Wright-Metzler Company's ability to equal the style, fit and quality of the creations of high priced dress makers and tailors to women is a conceded fact. When we say to you, positively, that you may come here during this sale and select a $30.00 suit for $24.50, we do not mean the kind of a suit you would ordinarily see at $30.00, but one that you could not have made for less than $37.50 and so it is with every value this sale offers you.

We want you to come here with your minds made up that you are going to secure the smartest garments that ever entered your wardrobe and we'll promise you that you'll not be disappointed. We have seventy-five garments in a wide diversity of new styles, new materials and new shades; suits that have gained for us a marvelous business and which are entirely divorced from the ordinary ready-to-wear garments.

When we offer a sweeping reduction in May on women's apparel there must be a strong reason for the action. Well, there is. We bought more heavily this Spring than in any season past. We have enjoyed a phenomenal business, but the volume of our purchases has caused our stocks to be too large at the beginning of the month of May.

THE RESULT—You can now buy a Wright-Metzler Company tailored suit, with all its exclusive style, its original lines, its distinctive fabric, at a phenomenally lowered price. We contend that this is the most important announcement we have ever made, considering its timeliness and the character of the merchandise involved. There will be a most enthusiastic response for there are hosts of women who have not as yet purchased a suit for the Spring and Summer seasons of 1908.

Every Suit in the Store That Regularly Retailed at $35.00 and $37.50

This collection includes all of our most exclusive models fashioned from the strictest of Parisian models and made from fabrics that are modish and authentic beyond a question. Among them are fitted and semi-fitted jacket suits, Prince Chap and cut-away models, in all the finest collection of suits we have ever offered in point of value giving. You'll vote them the finest specimens of the tailoring art you have seen this season. The picture in the upper left hand corner is an exact reproduction of one of the styles.

NOW $29.75

Every Suit in the Store That Regularly Retailed at $27.50, $28.50 and $30.00
